Japanese Style Room

“OKIHASHITSU” of MARUKI inherits and proposes the spirit of Japanese life style which has always been with the nature.

「置き和室」 made of wood of trees grown in the Kii region(Wakayama Prefecture), which is blessed with the rich and abundant natural environment; mountains, rivers, sea, and plentiful sunshine produces an atmosphere of < Wa> the essence of Japanese charm.

杉 SUGI

SUGI Wood of Japanese cedar: Its botanical name is Cryptomeria Japonica which means Japan's hidden treasure. This type of tree is unique to Japan and its wood has real relevance to the lives of the Japanese people from ancient times; for instance, it is used to make barrels for containing soy sauce or sake so that they will have good scent of wood.

桧 HINOKI

HINOKI Wood of Hinoki or Japanese cypress: It is a coniferous tree and pliable. Its noble scent has been valued and used as building material in Japan; a famous building made of Hinoki wood is Horyuji temple in Nara. It had been ordinary people's dream to have a house all made of Hinoki wood.
